

Bevin Theodore is a writer and editor with a passion for crafting content that helps businesses and individuals connect to the greater community. She holds a bachelor of arts in journalism from Lehigh University and has extensive experience in corporate and nonprofit communication. She has a deep appreciation for the performing arts and literature. In her free time, you can find her at the barre3 studio; volunteering for The Kindness Project, which provides free support to foster children and families across eastern Pennsylvania; and cheering for her two children at various sporting events. She and her family live in Lower Macungie Township.